PUT UNDER ARREST

Men Charged With the Murder of Penrose.

THREE OF THE SUSPECTS

Detectives Pick Up Deeney and K-lly in The City of Butte.

HICKEY TAKEN IN IDAHO

Yesterday's Startling Move in the ing the Work of the Secret Police Service.

BUTTE, July 27.—The excitement occasioned in this city to-day by the arrest of three men charged with the murder of the late William J. Penrose was fully as great as the excitement produced by the murder itself. All the afternoon and all the evening men have been discussing in little knots the proposition whether or not the officials have secured the right men. On this question the sentiment is pretty evenly divided, about as many stoutly maintaining their belief in the innocence of the men as in the belief that the officers have hit it right.

The prominence of the three men arrested, and their close connection with craan zed labor in the city, have made the excitement greater than it would otherwise have been. All the three men are prominent members of the Butte Miner's union. William E. Deeney is also president of the Eutte Workingmen's union and vice president of the Siver Bow Trades and Labor assembly. Eugene E. Kelly is secretary of the Silver Bow Trades and Labor assembly and has been secretary of the Eutte Miners' union. Phillickey was a delegate to the Silver Bow Trades and Labor assembly when he left this city and has been secretary of the Butte Miners' union. Those who know these men best strongly maintain that they were incapable of such a deed as the murder of Penrose. Fair-minded men who are not acquainted with those arrested express the opinion that the detectives doubtless knew what they were about, but at the same time agree that all men should be considered innocent until they are proven guilty, and that men should not be styled murderers until they are proven so. The prominence of the three men arare proven so.

ON THE TRAIL. How the Case Was Worked by Pinker-

A few days after the murder of Penrose A few days after the murder of Penrose Mayor Mueller, on authorization from the city council, engaged with the Pinkerton detective bureau of Chicago to work up the case of the Penrose murder. J. H. McQueeney, chairman of the board of county commissioners, happened to be in Chicago at the time and the arrangement was made—the ough him. The Pinkerton men were to be paid the rum of S8 per day and all expenses, whether they succeeded in working out the case or not. On the evening of June 19, C. R. Ryan, one of the Pinkerton men, left Chicago for St. Paul, and there engaged in consultation with J. C. McGill, superintendent of the northwest department of the Pinkerton agency. C. W. Wilson, assistant superintendent, was sent with Ryan to Butte and they arrived on the evening of June 22, 12 days after the date of the murder. C. W. Wilson immediately made himself known to Attorneys Haldorn and Baldwin, the sheriff, officers and others immediately interested, while Ryan made himself known to no one, and did not even meet his superior, correspondence through the postoffice being their only means of com-Mayor Mueller, on authorization from his superior, correspondence through the posteflice being their only means of com-munication. Wilson would get what postence being their only means of com-munication. Wilson would get what points he could by working among the friends of Penrose and among the au-thorities, while Ryan went to work among the enemies of Penrose and those who had been suspected of the murder. Belle Browning was vis-ited and her confidence obtained. The Pinkerton men soon became con-vinced as the local offleers had been that she knew nothing about the murder. She assisted the detectives all she could and started them off on several ciues. One assisted the detectives all she could and started them off on several clues. One day one of the detectives offered her money in return for the work she had done in the case.

"I want no money," said Belle Browning, "All I ask is the privilege of witnessing the hanging of the murderers."

Most of the work was done by Ryan. After working around the saloons and slums for a week or two, he began to work himself in among labor union men. During the coroner's inquest suspicion work himself in among labor union men. During the coroner's inquest suspicion for a time attached itself to Phil Hickey, W. E. Deeney and another prominent labor man. These men were, in fact, subpoenned before the coroner's jury, it having appeared that they had made threats against Penrose. But they were allowed to go without examination. There was also some talk of arresting the men before the Pinkertons arrived, but this plan was changed. The Pinkertons soon took up this same theory, but instead of the third labor man, Eugene Kelly was presently substituted.

Kyan presently obtained board and lodging at the boarding house of Mrs. Mary Keily at No. 323 North Wyoming street. Mrs. Keily is the mother of Eugene E. Kelly, and Kelly and Deenes both boarded there. In fact Kelly and Deeney room together. Ryan ate at the same table with these yeople, and frequently walked about town evenings with them. He spent most of his time trying to gain their confidence.

A score or two of people have been pointed out in town as Pinkerton detectives by people who knew that Pinkertons, were in town. But usually the guessers were on the wrong track. Ryan kept his secret well. Only a few knew that the flat-nosed man who boarded at Kelly's boarding house, who said that he was a miner, who kept steadily looking for work every day, and who seemed to know everybody that anyone else knew, was in reality a Pinkerton detective.

THE ARRESTS ARE MADE.

He examined carefully the evidence which has been collected. Although the evidence is purely circumstantial it seemed to him to warrant the arrest of certain parties. The arrest was delayed, however, in the hope that something more definite would be developed.

The detectives kept at work. Finally Mr. McGill decided that it was uscless to wait longer and that there was evidence enough collected to convict the men.

Last Friday night a meeting was held at the office of Attorney Haldorn. There were present Superintendent McGill and Assistant Superintendent Wilson of the Pinkerton agency, County Attorney Baidwin, Attorney Haldorn, who will prosecute the case, Sheriff Lloyd, Officers Waters and Rodda, Mayor Mueller and others. After a thorough discussion it was decided to issue warrants and arrest the men at once.

was accided to issue warrants and arrest the men at once.

Saturday morning Sheriff Lloyd went over to Helena to obtain a requisition from the governor for the arrest of Phil Hickey, who went to Boise City, Idaho, a few weeks ago. Saturday evening Sheriff Lloyd and Superintendent McGill left for Boise City with the requisition papers. It was arranged that the men should not be arrested in this city until the receipt of a cipher telegram from McGill announcing that Hickey had been arrested in Boise.

At 11 o'clock this morning a cipher telegram was received by Assistant Superintendent C. W. Wilson of the Pinkerton agency announcing the arrest of perintendent C. W. Wilson of the Pinkerton agency announcing the arrest of Hickey. Thereupon Mr. Wilson secured assistance, and at 11:30 o'clock, Officers Waters, Deputy Sueriffs Nichols, Richards and Rodda and detective Wilson started for the Acquisition mine, south of the Gagnon and near Copper street, where Deeney and Kelly work. It was so near noon, however, that it was concluded to wait till the men went to dinner. The boarding house at No. 223 North Wyoming street is near Copper street. The officers met Kelly and Deeney in East Copper street about 200 feet from the boarding house, where they were going to dinner.

boarding house, where they were going to dinner.

"We have warrants for your arrest," said Officer Waters.

The men did not ask what they were arrested for. The officers say that Deeney turned pale, and that Kelly did not change color. This, however, does not signify, as innocent men and guilty men alike would turn pale when arrested on a charge of murder. The men merely asked that they be allowed to go to the boarding house and change their clothes. This was not permitted, the men arrested being told that their clothes would be sent up to them.

The party went to the court house. On reaching the top of the court house steps, Officer Waters read the warrants of ar-rest. The men charged with the murder of Penrose were then taken into the women's department of the jail and locked up in separate cells.

WHAT THE EVIDENCE IS. Several Apparently Good Reasons Why the Men Were Arrested.

The evidence against the men is circumstantial and consists of a number of little things which the detectives have nicked up and the value of which a jury will determine. First of all was the find ing of what is claimed to be the other part of the shovel handle from which the billet, that was found near the scene of of the murder, was cut. This other part of the shovel handle, it is claimed, was found near the Acquisition mine. This Acquisition mine is worked on a lease from James A. Murray by Deeney and Kelly. The claim is made that these men worked alone at the Acquisition at the time of the murder and snortly before that time.

Another point made is that the iron used in the billet is stamped the same as iron used in the Acquisition mine.

A third point is that a woman claims to have seen a black mask drop from Kelly's pocket shortly before the murder; that he hurriedly picked it up and seemed very nervous. billet, that was found near the scene of very nervous.

In the fourth place it is claimed that Mrs. Rose Perkins, who runs the store in West Park street, identified Deeney and Kelly as being with another man who bought a lot of black cloth and cord at her place a day or two before the murder. This third man is supposed to have been the afternoon of the murder.

In the fifth place, it is claimed that Deeney was seen in the vicinity of the corner of Montana and Park streets on the afternoon of the murder.

In the sixth place it is claimed that Deency and Kelly are both identified by a man who claims that he saw them at the northeast corner of Montana and Galena streets, three or five minutes before the murder. This, if reliable, is the most important evidence of all. The man who, it is claimed, saw them is A. T. Allen of Helena. It will be remembered that Mr. Allen was in Butte the night of the mur. Allen was in Butte the night of the mur-der, as he testified at the coroner's in-quest, and was in that vicinity looking for a horse he could not find. He saw two men standing at the northeast corner two men standing at the northeast corner of these streets and one at the southeast corner. He approached the first two men, one of whom carried a small club. He thought he was a policeman and asked for directions. The man gave some gruff answer. Allen then said:

"I thought you were a policeman."

Allen has been in Butte for a week past, having been brought over with the purpose of identifying the supposed murderers. Mr. Allen has not been seen by a STANDARD reporter. He is said by one who is coilecting the evidence in the case that to have picked Kelly and Deeney out in a crowd as the men who stood on the corner that night.

In the seventh place, a false beard is in the possession of Sheriff Lloyd, which was found at the corner of Montana and Galena early on the morning of the murder. Apparently Penrose had pulled the beard from one of the men as he was being killed. In the beard were several natural hairs which it is claimed correspond to the beard worn by one of the alleged murderers.

spond to the beard worn by one of the alleged murderers.

In the eighth place it is claimed that Deeney and Hickey had both made threats against Penrose, and that Penrose had threatened to "get even with him" before he left the city.

Deeney and Hickey had both been roasted in the Mining Journal as labor agitators, although it is not known that Kelly had been particularly abused.

Hickey was a candidate for city marshal at the last election and was accused in Penrose's paper of having sold out his prospects to Miles Finien for $200.

WHO THE MEN ARE. Well Known in the City and of Fair Reputation.

Both Hickey and Kelly have been best known in this city as circulators for the Miner. Hickey took Kelly's place and heid the position until last winter. The talk is that Kelly and Hickey he not been on good terms. Shor after the murder Hickey desired Shortly after the murder Hickey desired to go to Boise City, Idaho. There was talk of arresting him before he was allowed to get out of the state, but it was decided to let him go, Hickey went to Boise City with credentials as correspondent of the Mmer. He remained there a week or so and then returned to Butte. He sold his boine in East Broadway for $2,000 and went back to Boise where he beight a small hotel and saloon business. He had just opened when he was arrested. Hickey is a married man with two children. No one intimately acquainted with him would suspect him of such a deed as that with which he is charged.

Keily is not married but has a widowed mother. He has been in the city about three years working as a miner. He came

No reporters, lawyers, or friends have been allowed to see the arrested men today. They have been kept close. All three of the men, it is stated, have expected arrest, and Dreney is reported to have said that he knew a warrant was out for his arrest. In conversation with a STANDARD reporter two or three weeks ago, he told where he had been that night. He admitted having been in West Park street near Montana, during the afternoon. It was on committee business, he said, connected with music for the Miners' union ball. That evening, he said, he attended the meeting of the Miners' union, which lasted until late in the evening. He then went into the saloon under the hall and remained there until after loclock in the company of several others. until 11:30 o'ciock the night of the murder, and in McCormick & Hughes' saloon for some time after that.

It is claimed by the detectives in the case that they have a better case against the men arrested than they had against the Cronin murderers. McGill and Wiison are said to be the men who worked up the Cronin case.

The news of the arrest of the men was received in Deer Lodge to-day shortly after the occurrence, and was the cause of great excitement. A short consultation was held between the officers of the penitentiary, and it was decided that a man, should come to Butte to assist in the protection of the sheriff's office, should there be an attempt made to secure the release of the prisoners. It was thought the prisoners arrested were without doubt the right men, and there would probably be trouble. Thomas McTague, warden of the penitentiary, came to Butte. He was greatly surprised to find things so quiet. He said the inhabitants of Deer Lodge were considerably more excited than the Butte people. He will leave for home to-morrow.

BUTTE, July 27.—A special session of the city council was held to-night to take action on the bonds offered by the pawn brokers, as required by a recent ord: nance, and to investigate the charges preferred against the sanitary policeman and heaith office.

TOLD BY BROWN.

How Rawlins Became a Few Hundred Dollars Richer.

J. F. Brown was the first witness for the prosecution. He stated that Rawlins was appointed on Friday and on Tuesday or Wednesday of the next week had appreached him and told him that if he, the witness, would pay him 20 per cent of his carnings he could get the night scaven-ger work. The witness refused to comply and said he would try it a week or so without pay-ing a commission. The next week a week or so without paying a commission. The next week Rawlins approached him again and demanded 25 per cent, and the witness spoke to Dr. Robarts, who advised him not to pay Rawlins anything. After acting on the advice of others, he paid Rawlins.

The amount he paid was $100, but the full amount of the commission was $117 50 net, having been unable to collect att his bills, the witness did not pay the $17.50 halance. The total amount he had paid Rawlins to date was $220. Brown produced a memorandum from which he read the amount and date of each payment. The last payment was made July II. The witness asked Rawlins for receipts for the money, but Rawlins refused to give him any. The witness said he toid Rawlins he would keep his own record of such payments in red ink so as to have it as proof against him sometime. Settlements were made weekly, usually about Saturday. Dr. Robarts at first told witness not to pay a percentage to Rawlins, but finally advised him to pay it rather than to have trouble with Rawlins. About a week before Robarts left the witness told him that he had paid Rawlins' commissions and told him the amount. The witness reported all the work he performed every week to Rawlins. The witness told Dr. Robarts the day the doctor left that unless he made things all right he would let out on him (the doctor) and Rawlins. Robarts told him to keep his mothth shut and shirt on and ail would come out right, and that Robarts promised to see the health office and Robarts was gone and Rawlins laughed at the health office and Robarts was gone and Rawlins laughed at him when he asked for a permit and told him he could have none. When asked about the charges that had been preferred against him, the witness said he knew nothing about them, as he was not present when the investigation was made by the board of health. The witness knew that Rawlins had no authority to collect against him, the witness said he knew nothing about them, as he was not present when the investigation was made by the board of health. The witness knew that Rawlins had no authority to collect commissions, but paid them because Rawlins threatened to have his permit revoked. The witness said that because of the percentage he paid Rawlins, he was compelled to charge more for scavenger work than would have been otherwise. Rawlins often told the witness to charge all he could. "The more you get, the more I get," the witness testified Rawlins said, "and I had to charge them," continued the witness, "or there would be nothing left for myself." In answer to a question by Rawlins the witness said he had to charge more since the passage of the ordinance requiring permits than before, because his expenses were greater. "You told me to sock it to them," said Brown to the sanitary policeman, "and I had." Brown to the sanitary policeman, "and I did."

SCAVENGER SWANSON'S STORY Twenty Per Cent, Was the Amount He Says He Gave to Rawlins,

S. W. Swanson was next. He is a night cavenger, and said after his appointment he had a private talk with Sanitary pected a percentage of 20 per cent, on all work he did. He paid the policeman $25 n work done and was told by the officer that he would have to settle every Saturthat he would have to settle every Saturday or loose his permit. The witness told his wife about the commission and also told one of his employes, named Jacobson, and the latter was present when he paid Rawlins the money mentioned. In order to shield Rawlins he had denied to Brown that he was paying a percentage, because he thought it a private business matter between himself and Rawlins. Afterward, however, he told Alderman Hines that he paid Rawlins commissions. Since the matter had come out, the witness had asked Rawlins to pay back the $25, but Rawlins refused to give it back, saying he had never reback the $25, but Rawlins refused to give it back, saying he had never received any money from him. The demand was made in the presence of a witness. At the time the witness was asked by Himes about the paying of Rawlins' commissions. The witness did not know that Himes was not interested with Rawlins, when Himes told him he would see that the commission would be cut down to 10 per cent. When Himes made that remark, Swanson thought that Himes was in the scheme and thought the samitary policeman had a right to charge commissions.

Swanson was put to a severe crossex-amination by different aldermen and also by Rawlins, whom he accused of accepting a job as completed in the morning and then because he thought he would not get his percentage, he got mad and woke the witness up during the night, and said the job was not completed. Special reference being made to a particular vanit, the witness told Rawlins that under his instructions he had not fully cleaned. A. T. Playter, druggist, corner Main and First streets, is sole agent for the celebrated J. A. eigar, manufactured of the choicest havana tobacco.

what was left in the vault. Swanson said no troub'e had ever ex stee between himself and Rawlins about prices prior said no trouble had ever a sted between himself and Rawlins about prices prior to the exposure of the percentage game. After the exposure, the witness said, Rawlins began to find fault with his prices and the measurement of vaults.

F. Jacobson, an employe of Swanson, had several times heard Rawlins and Swanson talk privately about percentage when the witness was in the health office with Swanson. Last Tuesday morning the witness and Swanson cleaned out a vault and after the work was done saw Swanson give Rawlins money at the corner of Main and Park streets. Rawlins held out his hand and he saw Swanson drop the money into it. A few minutes afterward the witness was told by Swanson that the money was due Rawlins for commissions and amounted to $25. The witness could not recall the private talks between Swanson and Rawlins, but remembered that it was about percentage. Whenever these private talks were held, Rawlins always asked the witness to step out of the room. The money paid to Rawlins always asked the witness to step out of the room. The money paid to Rawlins always asked the witness to step out of the room. The money paid to Rawlins always asked the witness to step out of the room. The money paid to Rawlins always asked the witness to step out of the room. The money paid to Rawlins always asked the witness to step out of the room.

TOOTS HIS OWN HORN. Mr. Rawlins Claim. He la a Victim of an Outrage.

The sanitary policeman then took the stand in his own behalf and absolutely denied having received any commissions from either Brown or Swanson and said the whole matter was a conspiracy against him, prompted by malice. Alderman Hines took the witness in band and asked him if it was part of his duties to solicit work for the scavengers. Rawlins said he never solicited for anybody. In answer to questions by the city attorney, Rawlins said he had never received any money from frown and knew nothing about the percentage business, until after Brown's permit had been revoked. He also denied the statements of Jacobson. also defined the statements of Jacobson that he had received money from Swanson and further denied having requested Jacobson to leave the room so that he could talk to Swanson privately. The only trouble between himself and Brown had been relative to the latter's charges, which the witness said had been exorbitant in many cases, and he had repeatedly ordered Brown to reduce his rates. As far as the charges made on Brown's book as indicating the payment of commissions the witness disclaimed knowing anything whatever.

"Did you not ask me if Mr. Brown could not be reinstated as long as the regular also denied the statements of Jacobson not be reinstated as long as the regular scale of prices had been established?" asked Alderman Hines of the witness. "No sir, I did not. I asked you if Dr. Robarts had spoken to you about re-in-stating Brown."

R. H. Paxson was called. He said be R. H. Payson was called. He said be bad gone with Rawlins to impect some vaults in Park street, which he desired cleaned, and was uncertain about the probable cost, and Rawlins told him not to allow the scavenger to overcharge him, but to get the work done as cheaply as possible. Rawlins told him $15 would be a reasonable price and Brown did the work at that figure. Swanson asked him $40.

work at that figure. Swanson asseuhim $40.

Adolph Pincus was then called in behalf of the prosecution. He said that Rawlins had ordered him to clean a vault, and also told him he would have to give the work to Brown or be arrested. Having had experience with Brown before he declined to employ him, and got some one else who did the work cheaper. Rawlins did not tell him that he would have to employ Brown because he was a licensed. employ Brown because he was a licensed scavenger, but simply told him he would have to employ Brown, and said this in a peremptory manner and without qualifica-

McDonald testified that Rawlins had McDonald testified that Rawlins had ordered him to clean a vault, and at the same time told him he could send a man to do the work. The witness said he would employ a man, but Rawlins told him this would not be permitted and that McDonald would have to employ whoever he sent. Brown came that night and partly cieaned the vault, and threw ashes and dirt into the hole, and next day presented his bill. The witness having learned that the work had not been performed, refused to pay. Rawlins next called and told him that unless he paid the bill, he would have him arrested and jailed. The witness told him to go ahead. jailed. The witness told him to go ahead.
Afterward Brown compromised by accepting $7 as payment for the work he had done.

CHARGES SUSTAINED.

A Vote of the Council Decides the Fate of Rawlins

Alderman Barret objected to farther testimony of the same kind, because the presecution had closed when Rawiins was permitted to take the stand. He said it was irrelevant and had no bearing on the case against Rawlins of charging a com mission to scavengers. The mayor was of the same opinion.

The mayor was of the same opinion. Hines said he desired to bring all the testimony obtainable so that the council could see what interest Rawlins had in getting work for Brown. In fact Rawlins had acted as a solicitor and collector for Brown, showing that he was greatly interested in the receipts of Brown. After some more arguments Alderman Lynch moved that a vote be taken on the question of sustaining the charges against Rawlins, and called for the ayes and nays.

The vote resulted as follows: Ayes—Bowman, Ducas, Grandey, Harrington, Lynch, McDermott, Reichle and Van Buskirk. Nays—Barret, Maule, Pascoe and Stewart. Alderman Hines asked to be excused from voting because he said he had been accused of bringing up the matter in consideration from personal motives.

On motion of Alderman, Lynch all personal motives.

On motion of Alderman Lynch all permits granted to scavengers, both day and night, were revoked.

In order to permit some grading to be done, a resolution was introduced by Al-derman McDermott giving permission to the Butte Street Railway company, oper-

Park and Broadway, and in Broadway days' notice to resume. This resolution was introduced in order that the company should not forfeit its charter by suspend and not loriest its charter by suspend-ing traffic in these streets.

Alderman Barret's motion to promptly discharge all employes of the city work-ing by the month who refuse to promptly settle their bills went through with a rush. The city attorney was instructed to pre-pare an ordinance prohibiting children under 16 years of age from being on the streets after 9 o'clock at night, subject to the usual exceptions.
